

BROOKINGS BREAKS THE RECORD AGAIN

Aviator Reaches a Height of 4,503 in a Wright Biplane at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, June 17.—Walter Brookings in a Wright biplane, broke the world's aeroplane record for altitude here today, when he soared to a height of 4,503 feet, according to the measurement of the altimeter. His motor stopped when he was descending, and he made a glide of two miles, landing easily in a wheat field. Brookings started at the Indianapolis speedway at 6:30 p. m., and flying in wide circles, reached his highest altitude forty minutes later. The biplane seemed to pause for several minutes at the height of 4,503 feet, then began a slow descent, sweeping five miles east of the speedway in its downward course. Brookings found himself flying over woods, meadows and creeks strange to him. Because of the falling darkness, he could not see the automobile track from which he had started. At this stage the motor clogged and stopped, and Brookings' only chance was to hold his steering planes true and glide to earth. For two miles he slid down through the air in the general direction of the speedway. When his stone retaining wall was reached, he found him knew that he could not pass over it, slipping over the tops of trees he luckily struck a wheat field and dropped lightly to the ground. The previous altitude record was 4,384 feet, which he set last Monday.

Councilman Mark Reedall displayed policeman's force at 7:30 o'clock last night when William Tullas and Walter Jones, barbers in a shop in the Brooks Arcade, entered into a dispute in which Tullas stabbed Jones in the back with a pair of scissors. The councilman pounced upon Tullas and informed him that he was under arrest. The prisoner was turned over to Patrolman L. F. Wire, who took him to police headquarters. Jones, with blood oozing from his back, was taken to the emergency hospital in the patrol wagon. The wound is not deep, and after Dr. F. E. Steele closed it with two stitches he went to his home.

GET ACQUAINTED AT THE 'U'

Faculty and Students of Summer School Become Friends. The faculty and corps of instructors of the university summer school entertained their students at a reception last night, when more than 500 guests participated in the function, which was held on the main floor of the gymnasium. Dancing was the leading feature of the evening's entertainment. The party was largely "off acquainted" in its nature, and to this end was made delightfully informal. Upon request of the "chaperons" in charge, "naïvetés and conventionalities" of a ball were dispensed with, and the guests were urged to consider themselves acquainted with all present. Dances of the John Paul Jones order, and the permitting of the girls to choose their partners for some of the numbers, assisted materially in making the party one of the most successful of its kind ever given at the university. During the evening light refreshments were served under the direction of Miss Lucy Van Cott, dean of the women.

ORPHEUM THEATRE.

With a matinee today and a performance tonight, Willard Mack's new play, "God's Country," will say good-bye to the local stage for the time being, and give way to a piece that has been the starring vehicle of one of the foremost women of the American stage for several years. "Merely Mary Ann" is a clever tale of everyday life, from the pen of the Jewish author, Israel Zangwill, in addition to the regular program tonight, the several prices for the best suggested title for the play will be awarded.

DANIELS THEATRE.

A distinct novelty in the way of entertainment is to be provided Salt Lake theatregoers in the Daniels theatre, which opens this evening with the Curtis Allen company presenting a pretty musical comedy, "The Jolly Widow." The play is of the New York roof garden type, many of which have had phenomenal runs there. The comedy is clever, the music bright and gay, the dancing graceful, the costumes handsome and the performance promises to be a hit on account of the vim and dash with which everything is carried out. Maybelle Baker, Lillian Sutherland, Flo Sherlock, Henry Auerbach, Charles Reilly, Jack Curtis, Harry Ford and the chorus of pretty girls furnish a combination that is hard to beat in musical comedy, and there promises to be something doing every moment of the performance. The theatre has been thoroughly renovated, additional exits provided, and a feature in the way of ventilation, arranged so the place will be as cool as out of doors. There will be two performances, evening, with matinee Sundays, Wednesdays and Saturdays.

MISSION THEATRE.

Those who have seen the bill which opened at the Mission theatre Thursday afternoon, unite in declaring that it is the best all-round bill that the house has yet offered. Despite the warm weather and the summer resorts, there is little question but that the bill will play to big audiences at every performance.

GRAND THEATRE.

If the demand for seats is a criterion a capacity audience will be in attendance at the Grand theatre Sunday night to greet Miss Victoria Bateman, who will appear in the role of Mercy Baxter in "Caprice."

CASINO THEATRE.

This week's bill at the Casino is drawing good houses in spite of the warm weather. There are three vaudeville acts headed by Margie Le Clair and Jimmy Casey, who present an Irish sketch. Barton and Fee are entertainers, and the singing by Geraldine Richards gets applause. The pictures are of the usual high order. The present bill runs throughout the week.

SHUBERT THEATRE.

Anna Clark sings character songs. Musical polar bear, Cuspin. Two violin selections and trombone solo. The Star comedy trio at the Shubert.

ISIS THEATRE.
